Problem Statement

Problem Title: Sexual Harassment

Sexual harassment in Bangladesh is so intensive, so pervasive and so overwhelming that young girls are committing suicide to escape it. A study by BNWLA shows 91% of the girls aged 10-18 years have experienced sexual harassment. It does not matter whether females/girls at work, in school, on the street, they in Bangladesh are often groped, flashed, taunted, rubbed, beaten and raped. Total number of reported victims from violence against women from January to September 2014 alone is 210. Studies show that due to social oppression and fear of retaliation the reported number is far less than the real number. This is a silent but awful crime. Due to social stigma and lack of awareness, the victims of this crime do not raise their voice against it. But sexual harassment happens to be such a debilitating crime which eats up the very core of a human being. It hurts her dignity, makes her feel powerless, helpless and often she may think herself responsible and deserving of such treatment. The Department of Women Affairs need a solution where victims of sexual harassment can safely report the crimes committed against them, they also welcome solutions that can ensure personal safety, connects women to safety networks, crowd sourced complain system and can raise awareness for violence against women. The office concerning this problem statement is the Department of Women Affairs under the Ministry of Women and Children Affairs You can solve a part of the problem stated, combine various solutions into one or create a completely new innovative solution to the problems statement.
